| 4:30 pm - 5:30 pm | SOCK Leadership: Daily Principles to Create a Positive Leadership Environment with Jeff Jones (Twisted X) |

What do socks and leadership have in common? In Jeff Jones' world, both socks and leadership are something he wears daily. It begins with Jeff's simple mantra about leadership, "Leadership is caring." The old adage, "people don't care how much you know until they know how much you care," rings true in leadership.

Jeff will discuss the importance of caring about the four primary areas that enable leaders to make an impact and have the influence necessary to effect positive changes. The desire to care for Self, Others, Culture, and Kuriously (why did he spell it with a K?) is what makes a leader a force within an organization.

Jeff Jones is the Chief Financial Officer for Twisted X, Inc., a footwear company based in Decatur, Texas. Jeff's roles in addition to CFO have included leading IT, HR, GM-Omnichannel Retail, Customer Service, Logistics and Fulfillment, and a stint as a sales rep for a large footwear company. Jeff's passion in his roles is understanding his teams and the needs of the operation and putting everyone in a position to succeed and grow and helping them navigate their individual journeys.

Home With the Armadillo: How Austin City Limits Created Austin with John T. Davis

For 52 years, Austin City Limits has beamed live music from its home in the heart of the Texas capital to fans around the world. The PBS series has endured to become the longest-running music series in television history, and it has, in the process, created an image of 'Austin' that has made the city a magnet for artists and creative people of all stripes. Would there be an Austin, Texas without Austin City Limits? Certainly there would. Would it be the same vibrant and creative place we know today? Maybe or maybe not. Longtime journalist and author John T. Davis will talk about the history of ACL, how it fits into the larger scope of Texas music, and the impact it has had on the city it calls home.

John T. Davis has lived in Austin for over four decades, writing about the music, personalities, and culture of Texas and the Southwest for a variety of regional, state, and national publications. He has been interviewed by VH-1, CMT, and NPR and has appeared in the documentary film Lubbock Lights. He is the author of the book Austin City Limits: 25 Years of American Music and has assisted in the preparation and editing of several other volumes, including biographies of musicians Jerry Jeff Walker and Johnny Bush, and a travel guide to Texas.

An Encore Conversation with Todd Thompson (MODE Global)

Back by popular demand, Todd's encore session takes the conversation even further into the shifting dynamics of the transportation industry. From ongoing EV developments to broader economic and operational pressures, we'll examine what's changing now and what it means for credit professionals. This discussion will dive deeper into strengthening alignment between credit and sales, navigating customer risk in a competitive market, and turning industry insight into smarter decision-making.

Senior Vice President of MODE Global, Todd Thompson is responsible for Sales, Business Development, and Customer Strategy. Todd's professional experience includes tenures with National Piggyback Services, American President Lines, Trojan Battery Co., and MODE Transportation. He attended Ohio State University and has over 35 years of experience in the supply chain and logistics arena.
